HISTORY

OF THE

TOWN OF WINCHENDON,

FROM THE

GRANT OF THE TOWNSHIP

THE LEGISLATURE OF MASSACHUSETTS

IN 1735,

TO THE PRESENT TIME.

BY EZRA HYDE.

Entered according to the Act of Congress, in the year 1849, by
in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Massachusetts.

TO THE YOUTH OF WINCHENDON.

Having a desire of rescuing from oblivion a series of facts, many of which will be interesting to the inhabitants of Winchendon, when the present generation shall be gone, it is believed, is a sufficient apology for publishing the following history.

The editor would rejoice with you, that our happy lot is cast in such a land as this, in which is the knowledge of the glorious gospel of Jesus Christ, a land of liberty both religious and civil.

Let us, for a moment, take a retrospective view of the time when our forefathers fled from persecution in England, their native country, and sought an asylum in this then barren wilderness. Here they patiently endured almost intolerable hardships. But they flourished and grew to a people and a nation.

At length, being oppressed by the mother country, they resisted her unjust encroachments and tyrannical usurpations, and would not submit to her unjust demands. And what was the consequence? Why, a long, a destructive, a terrible war ensued, in which many lives and much property were lost. Our fathers fought, they bled, they conquered; and obtained for their posterity that invaluable blessing, Independence.

Surely, these considerations cannot do less than excite in us the warmest emotions of gratitude towards the memories of those who, under God, obtained for us our Freedom and Independence.

Beloved youth, you are the hope of your country. But all depends on your improvement of early instruction.

The diligent study of the Bible ought, in the first place, to be most earnestly recommended to you. From that sacred fountain you will learn what you ought to believe, and what is your duty towards your Creator, your neighbor, and yourselves. In the Bible are made known the mind and will of God, and our duty, and the way of salvation by Jesus Christ.

The care of education is a work of the highest moment; as all the advantages, or miscarriages, of man's life are, in a great measure, dependent on it.

That man cannot be conceived to be absolutely complete, whose natural endowments are not assisted and cultivated by learning.

No stronger incentive to learning is needed, than to know what a figure a man will make in the world without this great accomplishment; and how by the labor of a few years' erudition, he stands possessed of advantages, that will stick by him to his latest hour.

By laying in a store of useful knowledge, adorning your minds with elegant literature, improving and establishing your conduct by virtuous principles, you will be a comfort to those friends who have supported you, happy within yourselves, and well received of mankind.

Beloved youth, to you especially is the following history cordially inscribed by

THE AUTHOR.

P R E F A C E .

The writer has been induced to undertake the present work by the solicitation of many of his friends, and by a desire to save from oblivion, to which they were hastening, some of the events connected with the history of this town. After collecting materials to a considerable extent, he felt ready to abandon the project, wishing that it might be prosecuted by some abler hand. But he has at length come to the decision to prepare the work for the press without further delay. The knowledge of some events treasured up in the memories of a few aged people, must, in the course of nature, soon be inevitably lost, if not preserved in a connected and tangible form. Though the number of these relics of other days is now small, much information has been derived from them; and much more might have been obtained, had the enquiries commenced a few years earlier.

The difficulty of preparing a work of this nature, can only be conceived of by one who has attempted it. The mere collecting of the scattered materials is some labor. It is a greater toil to arrange them in proper order when once they are collected. The settling of doubtful and contradictory statements is sometimes a perplexing business. And then comes the writing, which the author must accomplish as he can.

The writer has had free access to the Records of the Proprietors of Ipswich Canada, and to the Town Records of Winchendon. Oral and written information has been furnished with the utmost cheerfulness, by all those possessed of facts worthy of note.

It has not been thought necessary to descend into the particulars of the unhappy difficulties, which this town has experienced in its ecclesiastical affairs. The recital of them at the present time, would prove to be rather painful than interesting, and perhaps an impartial account would give satisfaction to neither party. When it is recollected that these divisions commenced about the year 1798, during the ministry of Rev. Mr. Brown, and continued, with more or less excitement, though with some intervals, till the ordinations of Rev. Messrs. Marvin and Bullard, during which period difficulty after difficulty arose, and council after council was called, it will be seen that a strictly impartial account of them would be a task of no small difficulty, and would extend the limits of this work much too far. It will be enough to state, generally, that angry feelings were sometimes indulged to an inexcusable extent. If this excited state of feeling has now passed away, the writer would not incur the hazard of disturbing the calm by galling a tender wound.

To Mr. Webster Whitney, the Town Clerk of Winchendon, Windsor N. White, Esq., Mr. Ezra Porter, Mr. M. S. Morse, Chairman of the Assessors the present year, Mr. Elisha Murdock, Rev. A. P. Marvin, Rev. Malachi Bullard, and Rev. J. M. Whiton, D. D., of Antrim, N. H. (who is a native of this town—the son of the late lamented Israel Whiton, Esq.—who was our physician, beloved and highly respected for his piety, talents, and usefulness,) this public expression of the thanks of the writer is due for the readiness with which they have afforded him every facility in their power, in the compilation of this work. To other persons, to whom he is more or less indebted for information, he tenders his grateful acknowledgements.

If the following pages afford satisfaction to the inhabitants of the place, and furnish the writers of general history with any facts before unknown, the writer is rewarded for his labor.

HISTORY OF WINCHENDON.

Grant of the Territory of Ipswich Canada.

On the 10th of June, 1735, a grant of land to be equal to six miles square, was made by the Legislature of Massachusetts, to Abraham Tilton and others. Preference was to be given to those who petitioned for the grant, and the descendants of the officers and soldiers, who served in the expedition to Canada, in the year 1690. This tract was to be laid out into 63 equal shares; one for the first minister, one for the use of the ministry, and one for a school; the others for 60 proprietors.¹

Meetings of the Proprietors, and their Transactions.

March 27, 1736. Thomas Berry, Esq., of Ipswich, was authorized to assemble the Proprietors and Grantees.²

April 13, 1736. The Committee appointed to lay out the Township met at Ipswich, and admitted a certain number of persons as Grantees of the Township.³

As all the Proprietors of the Township, excepting eight, belonged to Ipswich, in the county of Essex in Massachusetts, it was called Ipswich Canada, until its incorporation.¹

A meeting of the Proprietors and Grantees of the new Township, was notified May 20, 1736, by Thomas Berry, Esq., "to choose a Proprietors' Clerk, and to pass such votes and orders as may be thought most proper for bringing forward the said Township, agreeable to the General Court's order:"² which meeting was held in Ipswich, May 31, 1736. Thomas Norton, Jun., was chosen Proprietors' Clerk; and a Committee "was empowered to employ two men to burn the woods, if, according to their discretion, they shall think it best."³

Another meeting of the Proprietors was held at Ipswich, on the 28th of June following, when a Committee of five was chosen "to go and view the land."⁴

The next meeting of the Proprietors was held at Ipswich, on the 4th of November following; at which time a Committee was chosen to lot and lay out the first division. Jonathan Wade, Esq. was chosen Treasurer, and a method was agreed upon for raising money for defraying charges.⁵

The Proprietors' next meeting was held at Ipswich, May 6, 1737, when Assessors and Collectors were chosen.⁶

The next meeting of the Proprietors was held in Ipswich, October 27, 1737, at which time many important votes were passed ; among others, that reserving land for building a meeting house on ; likewise for a burying place, and for a training field ; also that giving encouragement to those who first shall build three houses in the Township, agreeable to the General Court's act, and who shall have a family settled in each house.¹

The next meeting of the Proprietors was held at Ipswich, February 13, 1737,² when it was "voted that there be a cart way cut from Dorchester Canada³ meeting house lot, on the nearest and most convenient way that can be found from Dorchester Canada road, to the center of the lots as laid out in the Township of the said Ipswich Canada, and to make such bridges and causeys as are absolutely necessary for making the way passable." It was also "voted, That four acres be cleared in the meeting house lot, in the most convenient place for erecting a meeting house, and to be sowed with herds grass ;" and a Committee of five was chosen to agree where to clear, in order for the location of a meeting house.⁴

At a meeting of the Proprietors, February 8, 1738, it was voted, That twenty shillings on each original Right be raised, for the encouragement of such persons, as shall build a Saw Mill ; and a vote was passed concerning clearing a road from Payqueage.⁵

Several meetings of the Proprietors were held in Ipswich in 1741 and 1742, for the purpose of adopting measures for erecting a Saw mill, building a meeting house and laying out and clearing roads, and to encourage the settlement of the Township.

The First Saw Mill.

In 1742 a Saw mill was erected at the place where Mr. John Poor's Saw mill now stands.

At a meeting of the Proprietors, March 14, 1742, a Committee was chosen to lay out a second division of lots. A Committee was also appointed to build a Corn mill in the most convenient place. A Committee was likewise directed and empowered, to agree with some one to do the Proprietors' blacksmiths' work in the Township.¹

After the last named date, there is no record of any meeting of the Proprietors, for more than eight years.

The next meeting of the Proprietors was held at Ipswich, March 29, 1751 ; and was adjourned to meet on the 11th of next April, when a Committee was appointed to run the lines, and renew the bounds between the Township of Ipswich Canada, and the contiguous Townships ;² which Committee made a return, and reported their doings at the next Proprietors' meeting. And at the latter meeting, Francis Goodhue was chosen Treasurer, and a Committee was appointed to assist the Clerk in making a report to the General Court.³

It appears from the records of the Proprietors and from tradition, that in or about the year 1752, there was a small frame raised for a meeting house, about 100 rods easterly of the present meeting house common, near the burying ground ; but it was never occupied, or even prepared for the purpose.

The First Settlers.

No evidence appears of there being any permanent settlement in the Township, previous to the year 1752. At length the Proprietors offered greater encouragement to settlers, and in that year, ten families had fixed down here.¹

But the settlement of the place was immediately retarded, by what is commonly called the last French War. Most of the settlers left the place. Those who remained were obliged to keep in garrisons.²

Measures regarding the Preaching of the Gospel in the Township.

The Proprietors, at a meeting in Ipswich, July 3, 1753, took measures to have the gospel preached in Ipswich Canada, and voted they would be at the charge of four days' preaching. And at this and subsequent meetings, they agreed to dispose of the meeting house frame that was before erected, and to make preparations for, and to build a new one. They also passed votes concerning managing and improving the saw mill, and making and mending roads.³

The First Meeting of the Proprietors in the Township.

The first meeting of the Proprietors, held in the Township, was at the dwelling house¹ of Richard Day, 24th Oct. 1753, and was adjourned to the next day, when it was voted that the road to the saw mill be repaired, and that the first frame erected for a meeting house be granted to Col. Thomas Berry, to enable him to build a suitable and convenient room to meet in for public worship.²

Fortifying the Township.

It appears that previously to the year 1754, something had been done with regard to fortifying the Township, against the incursions of the French and Indians. On the 31st October in that year, further measures were adopted for the purpose, a new Clerk was chosen, and money was granted to pay for preaching.³

It may be here stated that the Proprietors sustained the preaching of the gospel for from four Sabbaths to half the Sabbaths annually, for eight or ten years previously to the settlement of the first minister.⁴

The First Grist Mill.

The first Corn Mill was built on Miller's river, in what is now the North Village, about 1759, by Mr. Bartholomew Parsons.⁵

⁵ See Note X.

Soon after this, a bridge and a long causeway were built over Miller's river and the meadow, on the county road, near where Mr. Phineas Ball now lives.¹

In 1762, a bridge was built over Miller's river, in the North Village, against where the wool factory dye house now stands.²

The First Meeting House.

The Proprietors erected a meeting house in 1762. The Building Committee were Benjamin Goodridge, Abijah Smith and Philip Goodridge. It was located on the south part of the meeting house common. It had side and front galleries. It had pews and many free seats below and above. The outside of the house was clapboarded, but never painted; the inside was unfinished, never having been either ceiled or plastered.

A Cemetery, or burying place is located about 100 rods easterly from the meeting house.³

Incorporation of the Town.

In 1763 the Proprietors, together with the inhabitants, made arrangements relative to applying to the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation.⁴

On the 14th of June, 1764, Ipswich Canada was incorporated by an act of the General Court, when it was made a town and called Winchendon.⁵

Annexation of Royalston Leg.

When the township was first located, it was supposed to extend northerly to New Hampshire; but upon running the line afterwards between the States, it was found that there was a mile in width, the whole length of the town, left to Massachusetts. Upon the granting of Royalston some years afterward, this strip of land was annexed to that town, and called Royalston Leg. When a number of families had got seated thereon, at their request, it was, in 1780, set to Winchendon. It contained 3840 acres.

Land Set off to Gardner.

In June 1785, a piece of land of 3680 acres was taken from the the southeasterly part of this town to help form the town of Gardner. Winchendon, however, still remains more than six miles square.

Distance from Boston and Worcester.

This town is 60 miles N. W. by W. from Boston, and 35 N. by N. W. from Worcester.

Wood and Timber.

The general growth of wood on the high lands is red oak, beech, rock maple, interspersed with white pine and hemlock. On the low lands, white pine, hemlock, hacmatac, ash of all kinds, yellow and white birch, interspersed with red oak and beech. On some of the low lands there is little or nothing but pine, hemlock and hacmatac. In some parts of the town there is chestnut, and in other parts pitch pine, but neither of them in plenty.

Face of the Country.

There is somewhat of a diversity in the face of the country in this region. A large proportion of the town is level, consisting of pretty extensive plains; other parts are diversified by hills and valleys. Some of the most notable elevations are Meeting House hill, N. W. from the meeting house common, inclosed in the farms formerly owned by Rev. Joseph Brown and Mr. Levi Nichols; Prentiss hill, on the south side of Miller's river, formerly owned by Dea. Samuel Prentiss; Hyde hill, on the north side of Miller's River, formerly owned by Mr. Ezra Hyde, sen.; Lovejoy hill, now owned by Mr. Oliver Lovejoy; Poland hill, formerly owned by Mr. William Poland; Tallow hill, formerly owned by Mr. Peter Joyslin, sen.; Goodridge hill, formerly owned by Mr. David Goodridge; Boynton hill, formerly owned by Lieut. Joseph Boynton; Payson hill, formerly owned by Col. John Boynton; Barren hills, south of Monomonac pond; Hale hill, formerly owned by Dea. Moses Hale; Nineteenth hill, formerly owned by Mr. Dudley Perley and Mr. James Raymond; Raymond hill, formerly owned by Col. Paul Raymond; and Birch hill, near where Otter river empties into Miller's river.

Soil and Productions.

The soil of Winchendon, with some exceptions, has been accounted good. It produces grass, wheat, rye, indian corn, barley, oats, potatoes, and many other kinds of vegetables.

Ponds, Springs, Rivers and Brooks.

There is but one pond, which is wholly within the limits of this town ; this was called Denison's¹ pond, and is sometimes called New Boston pond. It covers, perhaps, as much as 70 acres. It has an inlet from the north and an outlet towards the south into Miller's river, which runs within 100 rods of the pond. It abounds in fish of various kinds.

There is a spring of the mineral kind, in the north-easterly part of the town. For many years after its discovery, it was called The Yellow Spring. It is of a medicinal nature, and rather seems of a chalybeate quality. It is not so much visited by invalids, as formerly.

There is one river known by the name of Miller's river, so called by the English, from a man by the name of Miller, who was drowned therein, about 200 years ago, in attempting to pass the river somewhere towards its mouth, in his way to Northfield. But the natives called it Payqueage. From Little Naukheag, which is near the centre of Ashburnham, a rivulet empties into Great Naukheag, whence a stream issues to the west which makes a part of Miller's river. Another source of Miller's river is a large pond, lying chiefly in Rindge, N. H., a small part only, (where the outlet is,) falling within the bounds of Winchendon. This pond is known by the name of Monome-noc pond. These two branches, together with some other small streams, uniting easterly of Winchendon North Village, form Miller's river, which runs westerly, southwesterly, northwesterly, and southerly, nearly half round the town; in no place nearer than one mile of the centre meeting house, and in some places three miles and more from it.

Otter river originates in a small pond in the south part of Templeton; one of its sources, and, perhaps, the main one, is found in the swamps of Westminster. The Templeton branch flows first in a southeasterly direction into Hubbardston, where it changes its course to the northeast and passes into Gardner, where several streams join it, and runs into Templeton again. It takes a northwesterly course in Templeton, and is joined by Trout brook. It just touches on Winchendon in the southerly part thereof, and runs nigh the bounds of the town about a mile and a half, and unites itself with the waters of Miller's or Payqueage river, just before it leaves Winchendon. Miller's river leaves the town near the southwest angle thereof.

There are two considerable streams in the westerly part of the town, which take their rise in Fitzwilliam, N. H. One of them joins Miller's River at the Upper Intervales, towards the northwest part of the town; this is sometimes called Stuart's Brook, on account of its running through the farm formerly owned by Jeremiah Stuart. The other comes from Fitzwilliam into Royalston, and runs a considerable way in the easterly part thereof, then turns and enters Winchendon, and after running several miles, joins Miller's river just above Denison's pond. This stream might have been denominated a river from its largeness, had it not early received the appellation of Priest's brook. This name was given it from the circumstance of its running through a tract of land, now lying in Royalston, formerly granted by the General Court of Massachusetts to a Joseph Priest, to induce him to set up a house of entertainment, for the benefit of travellers from this State to the Ashuelots, (Keene and Swanzey,) and to No. 4, (Charlestown,) in the State of New Hampshire. The house of this Priest was called The Halfway House. Trout, pickerel and perch, and various other kinds of fish, are found in the two latter streams, as also in many parts of Miller's river.

Besides the above mentioned streams, there are many other brooks and rivulets running in every part of the town, whereby it is exceedingly well watered.

Town Meetings.

On the 5th day of November, 1764, the first meeting, which the town ever held in its corporate capacity, was called, according to the act of incorporation, by virtue of a warrant issued by Edward Hartwell, Esq. of Lunenburg, directed to Richard Day of the town of Winchendon. It was held at the dwelling house of Richard Day. Richard Day was Moderator of this meeting, and Abel Wilder was chosen Town Clerk.¹

The next town meeting, which was the first annual March meeting, was called by warrant of the Selectmen, directed to the Constable, who "warned all the inhabitants of the town, by themselves, or by leaving word at their usual places of abode, to assemble at the time and place therein mentioned;" which meeting was held at the meeting house, March 11, 1765.²

Affairs Connected with the American Revolution.

It is well known, that for some years following 1760, the disputes between Great Britain and her Colonies were fast approaching a crisis. Soon after the French power in Canada had been crushed in 1759, the British Ministry began to turn their thoughts towards raising a revenue in America. Their first step in this proceeding was to direct the collector for the port of Boston to apply to the civil authority for "Writs of Assistance," to command the aid of all sheriffs and constables in breaking open houses, stores, ships and packages of all sorts, to search for articles prohibited by the "Acts of Trade"—a series of acts which had been passed to favor the West India merchants, and which had nearly annihilated the commerce of the Colonies. These acts had been mostly evaded by non-importation and smuggling.

The legality of the "Writs" was doubted, and the question came before the Superior Court for decision in February 1761. By the powerful assistance of James Otis, the Writs were defeated. His masterly speech on this occasion, first awakened the Colonists to the real danger of the threatened course of the ministry. They saw, in the pretended right of Parliament of taxing them to an unlimited extent, the germ of tyranny which would destroy their liberties ; and they wisely resolved to destroy the monster in its shell, before it should acquire sufficient strength to crush them in its folds. They knew that their charter gave them the right to tax themselves, and that every exercise of this right on the part of the parliament, was an infringement upon their chartered privileges. They were not actuated by the sordid love of money, but by the nobler love of liberty. They had freely poured forth their treasure and their blood in the preceding wars, and now they claimed the privilege of taxing themselves. They contended that Taxation and Representation were inseparable ; while Parliament claimed the right to "bind the Colonies in all cases whatever." This was the point on which the dispute turned.

In the years 1763, 4 and 5, the commerce of the Colonies was nearly at a stand, in consequence of the "Sugar Act," and the "Stamp Act." Their operation was defeated by non-importation and smuggling. To the great joy of the Colonists, the Stamp Act was repealed in 1766, and the importation of goods was greater than ever. A cloud was soon thrown over the prosperity which everywhere began to be visible. The "Revenue Act" was passed in 1763. Again the people of Massachusetts took the lead in asserting the liberties of the Colonies, and they acted promptly and effectually.

By means of associations, speeches, circulars and pamphlets, the rights of the Colonies, and the dangers with which they were threatened, were fully discussed and laid before the people.

In September, 1768, the Selectmen of Winchendon received a letter from the Selectmen of Boston, requesting them to call a town meeting, and then to take into consideration the critical condition of government affairs, and to choose an agent to come to Boston to express there the views, wishes and determination of the people of Winchendon, on this important subject. A town meeting was accordingly called to consider of the Votes lately passed by the town of Boston, and act in regard to them ; and "to choose a suitable person to join the Convention to be held at Boston." The town held their meeting on the 19th of the same month, and readily and cordially "consented to the several Votes passed by the town of Boston, at their meeting on the 12th of September instant." "But," in the language of the vote then passed, "being a small people, we think it not necessary to send a Committee ; but oblige ourselves to consent to those methods, that the Convention shall come into for the preservation of our invaluable rights and privileges." On reviewing these transactions, and their subsequent proceedings, no doubt is left but that thus early, the people were resolved upon maintaining their rights.

The firm resistance with which the projects of the British government were received, served to strengthen the determination of the Ministry to carry their point at all hazards. Troops were stationed at Boston to overawe the inhabitants. Acts of increased severity were passed. The colonists saw that they must yield, or maintain their rights at the point of the bayonet. They did hesitate between the alternatives. They did not prepare for the encounter under the impulse of the moment, but calmly deliberated upon the propriety of every measure. The pens of Otis, Adams and their associates, were ever busy. The acts of the government were severely scrutinized, and the rights of the Colonies most ably vindicated and maintained. But one sentiment pervaded the community, and that was a fixed determination to preserve inviolate their freedom.

The people of Boston took the lead in these measures of resistance, and were nobly seconded by the inhabitants of the other towns. They sought an expression of opinion from every town on the all engrossing subject of dispute, in order that they might know what they could rely upon, if it should be necessary to meet the obstinacy of Great Britain with open rebellion.

In January, 1773, another letter was received from the town of Boston, containing their statement of the rights of the Colonies, and the infringement made upon them, and requesting the inhabitants of Winchendon to pass suitable resolves, as free members of society, and to send them in the form of a report to the Committee of Correspondence in Boston. The town was not unmindful of this invitation. A town meeting was speedily called, by Abel Wilder and John Boynton, a majority of the Selectmen, agreeable to a request signed by ten freeholders,—To see if the town will take into consideration the distressing circumstances of the present affairs of the province; and so far as concerns particular towns and individual persons, to act thereon by choosing Committees, or otherwise, as they shall see fit. The meeting was held on the 15th of February following. A copy of the records of this meeting will convey a good idea of the views and feelings of the inhabitants, on these important subjects. The record is transcribed in the notes.¹

We hence learn what the sentiments of this town were concerning the course which Great Britain was pursuing towards her colonies. They believed that it was oppressive and unjust, and that they, as freemen, ought by no means to submit to it. Though living far back in the interior, they heartily responded to the noble and patriotic sentiments, which animated the bosoms of the people of Boston, and acquired for their favorite place of meeting, (Faneuil Hall,) the name of the "Cradle of Liberty."

A warrant was issued by the Selectmen, for a town meeting to be held on the 4th of August, 1774. The substance of one article, as stated in the warrant, is, that "Whereas the Committee of Correspondence of the town of Winchendon, have received a letter from the Committee of Correspondence of Worcester, together with the Committee of Winchendon, requesting the town of Winchendon to appoint one or more of the Committee of the town of Winchendon, to meet the other Committees of the several towns in this county, at Worcester on the 9th of August next, to consult together, and come into some regular method to oppose the late Acts of Parliament, the intent of which is to bereave us of our rights and privileges" —to see if the town will choose one or more of the Committee for the above said purpose. A town meeting was accordingly held, and a delegate chosen. And they accepted and adopted a number of loyal as well as spirited Resolutions.¹ The town meeting was adjourned to the 15th of September following, when the town again met, and voted to send a Delegate to the Provincial Congress, which was to meet at Concord, the second Tuesday of the next October. They then voted that every [male] person, from the age of sixteen years to sixty, should appear at the meeting house in Winchendon, on the 20th of September current. They also passed a vote, indemnifying the Constable in not returning a list of the persons qualified to serve as Jurors, agreeable to a late Act of Parliament, and directing him never to make such return.¹

The Provincial Congress had recommended to the several towns, to withhold the amount of their annual taxes from Harrison Gray, Esq., who was the State Treasurer under the royal government, before the commencement of difficulties in the colonies, and was still Treasurer; and that they should pay them over to Henry Gardner, Esq. of Stow, as the Treasurer for the province. With this recommendation the town complied, and ordered the Constables to pay the money to Henry Gardner, Esq., and engaged to indemnify the Constables.² These were, certainly, very bold measures, and well calculated to bring on the struggle of war.

The town, at their meeting January 10, 1775, chose a Committee to see that the agreement, and association of the Continental Congress, be put in execution.

It will be seen that the town was prepared for the important crisis, which was now at hand—the opening scene of the Revolution.

On the 19th of April, the troops of Great Britain and her Colonies first came in hostile collision. The alarm of Lexington was spread in Winchendon, by firing guns. Here was one small company of militia, of which the Hon. Abel Wilder was Captain. He and his company marched immediately. When the time of action came, the people of this town did not fail to make their deeds correspond with their professions.

There was, in this town, as well as other towns in the country, a certain number of men enrolled by themselves, and denominated "minute men,"¹ whose duty it was to be ready to meet any emergency, at a moment's warning.

As there was no immediate need for their services, Capt. Wilder and his men soon returned home. Capt. Wilder was afterward in the battle of Bunker Hill, in which one of his company, Samuel Bradish, was wounded in a remarkable manner; a musket ball, accidentally discharged by another of the company, entered the back of his neck, and came out at one of his eyes; he of course lost one eye. He got well, and lived many years.

After this period, several of the inhabitants joined the army at different periods, and for different lengths of time. This people were ever prompt, during the whole time of the revolution, in furnishing their quota of men, and whatever was necessary, to the utmost of their ability.

The warrant for the annual meeting in March, 1776, and previous warrants, had ever commenced in this form—"In his Majesty's name, you are required to warn," etc. This was the last occasion on which the people of Winchendon acknowledged the authority of "his Majesty's name."

The warrant for the town meeting which was held on the fourth day of July, 1776, and subsequent warrants, ran thus—"You are required, in the name of the Government and People of the Massachusetts Bay, to notify," etc.

This town meeting shows what was the disposition of the inhabitants, when the important question of National Independence was submitted to them. The General Court, then in session, had assured the Continental Congress, that if they, in their wisdom, should deem it expedient to declare the colonies free and independent, the people of this colony would, undoubtedly, support them in the measure. The State Legislature, however, to make the thing certain, passed a resolve that each town should act individually, on this important question. By virtue of this resolve, this town assembled on the 4th day of July.

The town "unanimously resolved, that if the Honorable Continental Congress should think it best, for the safety of these Colonies, to declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that we will, with our lives and fortunes, support them in the measure."¹ On the very day, on which the question was decided, and the Declaration adopted by Congress, the people of Winchendon declared themselves ready to peril their lives and fortunes in the cause of freedom.

The declaration having been adopted, copies were sent, by the order of the Council, to the several towns of the State, where they were read from the pulpit, and then copied into the town Book of Records—"there to remain as a perpetual memorial thereof."

It must strike every one with some surprise, that during the suspension of all judicial and executive authority in the State, the great mass of people should have been kept quiet and orderly. The wisdom, and power, and goodness of the Supreme Ruler of the universe—who has the hearts of all in His hand, and turns them whithersoever He will—were herein remarkably obvious. It was truly a moral spectacle. It was a nation bursting the bands in which they had been bound, and ruling and governing themselves in an orderly and peaceable manner. The force of public opinion, at any time great, was then irresistible. The recommendations of Congress were law, and the Committee of Safety saw that the laws were executed, against whom no one durst rebel. In this, they were fully countenanced by the people, who in their frequent meetings and discussions of national affairs, became convinced that union and order were necessary to their existence as a people, and they had virtue enough to guard these most sacredly.

The town, at a meeting, September 30, 1776, "voted and consented that the present House of Representatives, together with the Council, in one body, form a system of laws, for the regulation of this State; that the same be made public for the inspection and perusal of the inhabitants before it be established." And the General Court having given liberty to every town that was not, at that time, represented in the General Court, to send at this time; this town being not now, nor ever before represented, at this meeting "voted to send a Representative, and chose Mr. Robert Bradish, to represent this town in the Great and General Court, the remaining part of the year." In May, 1777, Mr. Bradish was again chosen Representative.¹

Though the burthen of the war was now pressing heavily upon the town, which was not highly favored in the possession of worldly goods, the people did not despair of the cause of Independence. They continued to labor steadily to the utmost of their ability. It is impossible for us to realize, at the present day, how completely that struggle called into exercise every resource, and the whole energy of every individual throughout the community. How low soever might be his condition, and however scanty might be his means of supporting himself and his family, every man was called upon to act—to do to the utmost of his ability, or to rest under the imputation of being a tory.

Let it be remembered also, that at this time, when all kinds of business had been brought nearly to a stand by the operation of the war, when specie was almost unknown throughout the country, and the paper currency was of but little value,¹ the ordinary expenses of the town—such as the support of the minister, of schools, of the highway and bridges, &c. &c.—bore with extreme rigor upon the inhabitants.

In May, 1779, the town voted in favor of a new State Constitution. In August, Abel Wilder, Esq. was chosen a delegate to attend a convention, which was to meet at Cambridge, on the first of September, for the purpose of forming a State Constitution.

State Constitution.

In May, 1780, the present Constitution of the State was submitted to the people for their consideration. The inhabitants of Winchendon voted in favor of adopting it.

Peace with Great Britain.

Most welcome was the news of the peace with Great Britain in 1782. The days of the Revolution had been trying times. In common with others, this town had been heavily burdened with the expenses of the war. Many of the citizens had engaged at different periods, in the service of their country. Our fathers experienced trials, and hardships, and sufferings, of which it is impossible for their descendants, at the present day, to have an adequate conception.

In May, 1781, Abel Wilder, Esq. was chosen to represent the town in the General Court, under the new Constitution. He represented the town ever afterward, except one year, until 1786, when he was elected a member of the Senate of this State, by the suffrages of this Senatorial district.¹

Winchendon Lottery.

The war, as is well known, left the country in an impoverished condition. Poverty was everywhere. A sound circulating medium was wanting.

In this state of things the town chose a committee to petition for a lottery, to enable the town to build and repair the bridges it was obliged to support.

Permission for a lottery was accordingly obtained in 1783. There were, afterwards, three classes drawn, and some money was obtained. In 1785, the bridge which is now in the North Village, was erected. It is now considered, that no scheme of taxation could have been devised more injurious and extravagant. It was paying under a fascinating prospect of gain, a much larger sum than the citizens would have been obliged to contribute by regular rates. Nor was this all. Some will now recollect the time consumed in drawing the several classes of this lottery, the idleness and consequent dissipation it induced, to say nothing of its natural tendency to beget a love of gaming.

After the declaration of peace in 1783, a general stagnation of all kinds of business ensued. The United Colonies were burdened with a debt of forty millions of dollars, without any means of paying it. Congress, under the Confederation, had power only to advise the several States to adopt certain measures to meet the wants of the times.

But the States, actuated by a spirit of commercial rivalry and jealousy, would agree upon no uniform system. So far, then, from any measures being adopted to pay the public debt, even the interest of it remained unpaid.

The whole body of the people became alarmed, and all confidence was destroyed. Certificates of public debt lost their credit, and many officers and soldiers of the late army, who were poor, were compelled to sell these certificates at excessive reductions. They had fondly hoped that if they could establish their independence, and a government of their own choosing, public and private prosperity would everywhere abound, and that things would go on delightfully. Bitter, now, was their disappointment. Of money there was next to none. The introduction of the precious metals had been prevented by the war and its attendant evils, and the paper money in circulation, was of small value. Creditors became alarmed, and used every means in their power to collect their debts. Business was at a stand—men failed—lawyers were overwhelmed with employment, and Courts of justice filled with business. Massachusetts, for the purpose of maintaining her credit, loaded the people with excessive taxes. It was impossible for them to meet the demands made upon them. They knew not the origin of the evils, but supposed that there was some defect in the laws—that there were either too many, or not enough. Petitions were poured in upon the Legislature from all quarters, but the Legislature, like all deliberative bodies, moved slow. The patience of the people was entirely exhausted, in seeing their property seized on ‘executions,’ issuing from the authoritative Courts; and as petitions, remonstrances, and mild measures had failed to work out a remedy for their grievances, they were determined to seek a remedy by force of arms. Thus much it has been necessary to premise, to account for the origin of “Shays’ Insurrection” in 1786.

Facts Connected with the Insurrection in Massachusetts.

A majority of the people of this, as well as the neighboring towns, were ‘Shaysites.’ In extenuation, though not in justification of their conduct, it may be remarked that their straight forward way of thinking, did not lead them to comprehend the actual state of public affairs, and the necessity of sacrificing present convenience to future good. After a war of eight years’ duration, to avoid the evils of excessive and illegal taxation, they could not see what they had gained, if they were now to be subjected to severer taxation than ever.

They did not break out into open rebellion here, though many stood ready. However, they put no restraint upon their tongues, and their language savored strongly of rebellion. Several persons were involved in that unhappy insurrection, whose names are suppressed from charity to their memories. Their efforts here were always thwarted by the firmness of the "government men," who were unwearied in their efforts to quell the spirit of rebellion.

A few persons, taking advantage of the popular excitement, during the time of the insurrection, were chosen to offices of profit and trust, from the Insurgent party; but they generally became satisfied of their error, as soon as, by their intercourse with intelligent patriots, they saw the dangerous tendency of their measures. We cannot, at this day, realize the horrors of the civil war that then threatened, and, in many places, actually distracted the State. A house was literally divided against itself. Neither sex nor age were exempt from the angry passions that prompted the warlike preparations.

Open rebellion having broken out in several places, and threats and demonstrations of warlike movements beginning to appear in others, the State authorities were compelled to take notice of them, and resolved to put them down by an armed force. They had under their control the militia of the Commonwealth, and on their side all those, who preferred good order and an observance of the laws—though somewhat objectionable—to open rebellion and civil war.

The insurrection of 1786 being rather a matter of State history, than that of any particular town, this sketch of it will be brought to a close in a few words.

The force headed by Shays himself having been dispersed, the agitation on this subject principally subsided in the following year.

It was customary for the friends of government, to wear a fillet of white paper in their hats, while the adherents of the opposite party adopted, as a badge of distinction, a sprig of evergreen. But, fortunately for the country, the evergreen, in the language of one in that day, soon withered; the arm of power scattered the insurgent forces, and the miserable and misguided adherents of Day, and Shays, and Wheeler, and Parsons, were glad to sue for mercy to that power, which they had so lately risen up to crush. And their suit was not in vain; policy, as well as a predisposition to clemency, spared their lives, and they were suffered to return to their homes in peace. Those, whose reason returned as their passions subsided, became convinced of their follies and their criminality, and many of them became firm supporters of the government. Happily, quiet and order were restored. It seems now to be as generally admitted, that there were causes of complaint, as it is that the course pursued to remove them was unjustifiable.

MEETING HOUSES.

Congregational Meeting House in the First Parish.

The first house of public worship being too small for the inhabitants, the town erected a new one in 1792.¹ It was raised on the 25th and 26th of May. The dimensions of the house are 50 by 60 feet—posts 28 feet—a porch at each end of the house. It has front and side galleries—with square pews, and some free seats above and below.² Several years after the building of the house, a tower, and steeple, and bell were added.³ The first meeting in this house was on the 1st of June, 1793, when it was solemnly dedicated to the service of God.

Baptist Meeting Houses.

There is a Baptist meeting house in the south west part of the town. It was erected about thirty years ago.

There is now (1848) being erected, in the Village near the railroad depot, a meeting house, by a Baptist society recently formed.

Methodist Meeting Houses.

The first Methodist meeting house was located near the northwest corner of the town ; that house was afterward sold.

The Methodist society erected a handsome and commodious chapel in 1833, in the North Village.

Winchendon North Congregational Meeting House.

In the early part of the year 1843, a voluntary association was formed for the purpose of building a house of worship in Winchendon Village. The association consisted of thirty two gentlemen, and was termed the North Winchendon Congregational Meeting House Company. They accomplished their design in the course of the year by erecting a beautiful house, spacious enough to seat comfortably 400 persons, including old and young.

An ecclesiastical society was then formed, denominated the North Winchendon Congregational Society, to which the Company transferred the meeting house, and by which the preaching of the gospel has since been sustained.

ECCLESIASTICAL HISTORY.

The First Church.

This church was formed December 15, 1762, consisting of twelve members, including the minister, Mr. Daniel Stimpson, who was ordained pastor of the church at the same time. Some of the original members were from other churches—some of them made a profession at the time.

Rev. Mr. Stimpson was educated at Harvard College—was settled on a salary of £60—£60 was given him as a settlement, besides a lot of land of 100 acres, which was reserved for the first settled minister.¹

At the first meeting of the church, of which there is any record found, which was held March 24, 1763, Mr. Richard Day was chosen Deacon. It was also voted at the same time to have the sacrament of the Lord's Supper administered on the first Sabbath in May, 1763. Mr. Day appears to have been the only deacon of the church till November 12, 1767, when Mr. Abel Wilder was chosen Deacon.²

Rev. Mr. Stimpson died of a violent fever July 20, 1768, having performed a ministry of less than six years; during which time, according to Mr. Stimpson's record, not more than fifteen were added to the church in full communion, though many more "owned the covenant."¹

The remains of Rev. Mr. Stimpson were deposited in the cemetery near the centre of the town. Not even a rude stone marks the spot, where lie the remains of the first minister who ever stately proclaimed the gospel in this town. A little mound of earth, only, tells the stranger some one lies there, where tradition says the first minister was buried.

After the death of Mr. Stimpson, the church and town were in a destitute state only about ten months. Then Rev. Joseph Brown, educated at Harvard College, was ordained pastor of the church, May 24, 1769. There was no extensive revival of religion during his ministry; yet there were considerable numbers received into the church by profession, and by letters from other churches. Mr. Brown held his office about thirty years.

About the close of his ministry, there was much difficulty between him and his people. After much altercation, trouble, and expense, he was dismissed December, 1799.² As the records of the church during the period of his ministry are lost,³ it will, perhaps, be better to forbear a recital of the origin and progress of the unhappy state of affairs, which led to the dissolution of the connection between pastor and people.

The pastor and most of those to whom he ministered, have, ere this, gone to give up their account to Him who is the Judge of all the earth.

After a space of about one year and six months, Rev. Levi Pilsbury, educated at Dartmouth College, took the pastoral charge of the church. He was ordained June 24, 1801. He continued his labors till the period of his death, which occurred April 5, 1819, in the 48th year of his age, and 18th year of his ministry.

Mr. Pilsbury's labors were greatly blessed to this people; and there are many now, who hold his name in affectionate remembrance. During his ministry the church and people enjoyed a good degree of prosperity. There were one or two powerful (though they cannot, perhaps, be considered extensive, or general) revivals of religion, which are now remembered with lively interest by the elder members of the church. During the second year of his ministry, 20 or more were added to the church by recommendation and original profession.

In June, 1810, the number of church members was 130—55 males and 75 females. In May, 1815, it was only 107—30 males and 67 females.¹

After the death of Mr. Pilsbury, the church was destitute of a settled minister about eighteen months ; and after making several unsuccessful attempts to settle another,¹ the people were united in the choice of Rev. Eber L. Clark, to be their pastor. He had previously been settled in Chatham, Conn., and Granby, Conn.

Mr. Clark was installed pastor of this church, Oct. 13, 1820. He was dismissed at his request by vote of the church, Jan. 2, 1835. The doings of the church, in granting his request, were afterward confirmed by a mutual council.²

During Mr. Clark's ministry, the church was greatly increased. According to the records, over eighty were added in the year 1822 ; and but three years passed, during his labors here, in which there was not some addition to the church by profession.

After the close of Mr. Clark's ministry, the church was destitute of a pastor until March 2, 1836, when Rev. Daniel O. Morton, who had before been settled at Shoreham, Vt. and at Springfield, Vt. was installed. Mr. Morton continued pastor of the church till June 29, 1841, when Mr. Morton having resigned his office, and the church having accepted the same, his connection with this church was dissolved by a mutual council.³

While Mr. Morton was pastor of this church, there were received into its communion, by profession and recommendation from other churches, about 130 members.

For several years the church and society now remained without a settled pastor, the pulpit being supplied by various individuals. Meanwhile, a portion of the church and society united in forming a new society in the north part of the town, and consequently separated from the first Congregational church and society. The formation of this new church and the evidence of novelties of other denominations, have much reduced this in numbers and in wealth, although the society is still abundantly able to support the institutions of religion. After the division of this church and the separation of a portion of its members, which occurred in 1843, the church remained without a pastor for about three years. Rev. Benjamin Rice, however, was the stated supply for about two years.

On the last Sabbath in June, 1846, Mr. Malachi Bullard, Jr. the present pastor, commenced his labors among this people. Having received and accepted a call from the church and society to settle with them as their pastor, he was ordained, Nov. 19, 1846.¹

The following have held the office of Deacons of the first church. Richard Day, Abel Wilder, Moses Hale, Samuel Prentice, Levi Moor, Amos Heywood, Israel Whiton, Desire Tolman, George Coffin, Paul Raymond, Reuben Hyde, John Cutter and Levi Prentiss.

The society at present, labor under the embarrassment of a house of worship which very much needs rebuilding or repairing. The present place of worship, erected in 1792, is, probably, the oldest house of worship which has not been remodelled in this region: and although it might be desirable for antiquity's sake to preserve the original as it is, yet more important reasons seem to demand some alteration and improvements, which, it is now expected, will soon be made.

Baptist Church and Society.

About 50 years ago a Baptist church and society, in the southwest part of Winchendon, were organized, which likewise included some members living in the southeast part of Royalston. Rev. Mr. Symonds was settled and continued their pastor many years. After Mr. Symonds' dismissal, they had successively, Rev. Messrs. Cooper, Brown and Dunn. They have now no pastor.

Methodists.

About the year 1800 was the beginning of the Methodist operations in this town. Being Episcopal in their church government, their desk is supplied by such preachers as the Conference from time to time may place upon the circuit. They have had many worthy itinerant and local preachers. The present preacher is Rev. Mr. Gordon.

Universalists and Unitarians.

There are a few Universalists and some Unitarians in this town, who, respectively, have meetings and preaching occasionally among themselves.

North Congregational Church.

The Winchendon North Congregational Church was organized on the 7th day of December, 1843, by an ecclesiastical Council.¹ The church consisted of sixty-six members regularly dismissed from the first Congregational church in Winchendon, and one member from the Congregational church in Rindge, N. H. An invitation to settle with them in the gospel ministry, was then extended to Mr. A. P. Marvin, a licentiate of the New London (Ct.) Association, and a graduate of the Seminary connected with Yale College. This invitation being acceded to, religious services were held in the new sanctuary, on the 10th day of January, 1844. In the morning the church was dedicated to the worship of the triune God; and in the afternoon, the ordination exercises were held.² Soon after, brethren Reuben Hyde and Ebenezer Butler were by the church, appointed Deacons. The number of this church at the present time, Sept. 25, 1848, is one hundred and seven.

Early Settlers.

The population of this town has, from the first settlement furnished emigrants to other towns and other States. Great indeed, has been the emigration from this town for the last sixty years. Yet the population of the town has gradually increased in numbers from its settlement to the present time ; but much more rapidly of late than at any former period, on account of the mechanical and manufacturing establishments, from which a large number find employment and support.

The following persons were among the early settlers as appears from the records. The first catalogue exhibits, at one view, those who were here at different times for 10 or 12 years prior to the incorporation of the town ; the other, in like manner, for 10 years subsequent to that event. The date against each name shews the time when he is ascertained to be here, although some of them may have arrived sometime previous. To fix the dates at which the different families came into the place, and the particular places where they settled, is no easy task. Some, and perhaps many of the first settlers, who had families, were in the place a part of one or two seasons before they removed their families. If all the particulars were known, it would be difficult to say when and where certain persons became permanent inhabitants ; and it is much more difficult now when most of the facts are lost. An asterisk is prefixed to the names of those persons in the following list, concerning whose permanent settlement there rests uncertainty.

Richard Day lived where Rev. Malachi Bullard now lives. He came here from Lunenburg, and was one of the first who removed his family into the place. As early as 175— he opened a public house, which was the first opened in the township. He was an industrious, enterprising man, and was frequently employed in the public business of the place. In March, 1763, about three months after the church was organized, he was chosen a Deacon, which office he sustained till his decease in 1774.

John Darling lived where Jason Keith now lives, and was one of the first who removed his family into the place. He afterward lived where Calvin Goodridge now lives.

Charles Tuttle lived where Simon Tuttle, sen. now lives.

Gabriel Pouchey, of French descent, was taken prisoner at Cape Breton in the French war—afterward came here—lived in a small house which stood where Lyman Raymond's house now stands. He died 1775.

David Poor lived where Simon Poland now lives.

Timothy Darling lived near where James Murdock afterward lived—near where Henry Keith now lives.

Schools.

In the first settlement of this town, schools were very much neglected, as is generally the case in new townships. It is probable that something was done by private individuals at an earlier period, but during the first year of its incorporation, it does not appear that there was any school in the town. The first appropriation found on record was at a town meeting, Sept. 4, 1765, when the town voted to have a school in (the centre of) the town, and to have 8 dollars, paid out of the land tax, laid out in schooling.

In 1766 the town granted for schooling $20—in 1767, $13—in 1768, $20, and then voted, that the extreme parts of the town have their proportion of schooling by themselves, they providing a place and a keeper.¹ In 1769, $13,33—1770 to 1775, from $24 to $67 yearly, 1777–1780 from $100 to $92,00 yearly, to be paid in paper currency. From this view of the subject, we are enabled to judge of the opportunities which our fathers enjoyed for acquiring an education. The difficulties attendant upon the first settlement, and the burdens of the revolutionary war, prevented that attention to education which would otherwise have been given it.

After the close of the war, the cause of education received more attention, and from that period to this, our schools have been improving. At the present day we have eleven school districts, each of which has a good school house. The house in district No. 2, is calculated for two schools.

In 1781-5, the town granted $120 yearly, which then was $20 to each district, to be made equal money in 1784,—1786-8, $167 yearly,—1789-1805, from $200 to 450 yearly,—1806-22, $500 yearly,—for several years up to 1844, $1000 was annually appropriated,—1845, $1100,—1846-47, $1200,—1848, $1500.¹

In the year 1845-6 our schools were kept in the summer 31 months 14 days, by 12 female teachers, and in the winter 21 months 21 days, by 9 male and 3 female teachers; making the aggregate length of the schools 59 months and 7 days. The number of scholars of all ages that year was, in summer, 407, in winter, 510.² In 1848, the number of persons in the town between the ages of 4 and 16 years is 541.

Winchendon Academy.

This institution originated in the liberality of Ephraim Murdock, Esq.

The Academy building, which is a finely proportioned edifice, was erected in the summer of 1843, with the intent of having it used for a high school or Academy, for the benefit of the town and vicinity, as long as there shall be a suitable school sustained in the building—without any rent or other compensation than keeping the premises in repair.

The building is 30 by 40 feet, two stories high, with a projection in front, supported by 4 large fluted columns standing on stone pedestals; and inclosed in a yard with a substantial railing on stone posts, and ornamented with shady trees, and a gravel walk through the centre.

The donor has also erected a large and convenient boarding house, and a stable, for the benefit of the institution. The expense of the buildings, including the yard, is between three and four thousand dollars. Also about $400 has been laid out by the proprietors, for furniture and apparatus for the Academy and boarding house.

The lower story of the Academy is to be used exclusively for a school-room,—the upper story or hall to be used for lyceums and such other purposes as the proprietors may think proper.

The institution is incorporated, the charter giving the power of holding property to the amount of $10,000.

Its design is to furnish facilities for instruction in the higher branches of English education, and the ancient and modern languages usually taught in Academies.

The first academic term was held in the autumn of 1843, under the care of Mr. John G. Giles, a graduate of Dartmouth College. During succeeding years, the Principals have been as follows:—Mr. Levi O. Stevens of Burlington College, Mr. Stephen F. Kellogg and Mr. Charles L. Brace, both of Yale College. Since the month of August, 1847, the Academy has been under the superintendence of Mr. A. H. Merriam, a graduate of Dartmouth, and an experienced teacher.

The benefits of the institution are already manifest. Many hundreds, of both sexes, have already derived great advantage from it: and the desire for a higher and more thorough education has been excited in many a youthful breast. If it shall be sustained according to its praiseworthy design, it will be the source of manifold blessings to the community.

Collegiates.

Eight persons, inhabitants (and six of them natives) of this town have received a collegiate education: Otis Crosby, minister of the gospel in North Yarmouth, Me.; John M. Whiton, minister of the gospel in Antrim, N. H.; Sam'l H. Tolman, minister of the gospel in Weston, Vt.; Sewal Goodridge, minister of the gospel in Canada; Stephen Emory, Jun. attorney at law; Otis C. Whiton, minister of the gospel in Harrisville, (Nelson) N. H.; Gamaliel C. Beaman, minister of the gospel in Indiana; Barret Washburn, sometime preceptor of the Academy, Winchendon.

Seasons of great Mortality, Sudden Deaths, &c.

Few towns have been favored with more general health than this; yet there have been seasons of great mortality. The disorders which have prevailed to the greatest extent, have been the dysentery and the canker-rash. In 1775, the dysentery, then called 'fever and flux,' or 'camp distemper,' prevailed: some aged people, and many children died. In 1786, 28 persons died of the dysentery. In 1795, the canker-rash, formerly called the 'throat distemper,' prevailed in the west part of the town: many children died. In 1810, the canker-rash prevailed here: the whole number of deaths that year, was 54; 45 of which were of children.

There have been many sudden deaths, some of which were by violence, some by casualty.¹

Population and other Statistics.

There are no exact data from which to estimate the population till 1790, when the first official census was taken.

The number of inhabitants in this town, was in 1790, 951; in 1840, 1679; in 1846, 2020. There are 18 persons in this town, who are of the age of 80 years or more.² There are in the town two physicians,³ and one Attorney.⁴

¹ See Note AAA. ² The following gentlemen and ladies are 80 years old and upwards, namely: Seth Tucker 91 years of age, Daniel Day 86, Jonas Bradish 85, Simon Tuttle 85, John Esty 84, Isaac Taylor 84, Joel Butler 83, Jacob Parks 83, Barzillai Martin 83, James Murdock 82, Asa Hale 81, Jacob Scott 80, Daniel May 80, Mrs. Wm. Poland 90, Mrs. Rebecca Graton 85, Mrs. Abigail Edmunds 83, Mrs. James Murdock 80, Mrs. Mary Chubb 87. ³ Alva Godding, Ira Russel. ⁴ B. O. Tyler.

The ratable property of the town within the last ten years, has increased near one third. The standard valuation of the town for 1838, $435,744 ; for 1848, $642,727 ; number of taxable polls in 1848, 644.

There are within the limits of the town (besides such as those hereafter stated as being in the three principal villages,) 1 grist mill, 16 saw mills, 2 pail factories, 2 blacksmiths' shops, and a considerable number of carpenters', coopers', turners', and other mechanic shops, some of which are worked by water power.

Winchendon Village.

This is sometimes called the North Village. It lies on both side of Miller's river. Its extent from east to west, is about 1 mile. Some of the streets extend from south to north, from one-fourth to one-half of a mile. The Cheshire railroad has recently been completed through the village, on which, and within the limits of the village, is a stately and convenient depot.¹

Within the present limits of the village, there were in 1784, but 4 dwelling houses, viz. one where Mr. Geo. S. Coffin's store-house stands, occupied by Capt. Edward Newton—one near where the depot is, owned by Mr. Seth Tucker, sen.—one where Esq. Murdock now lives, occupied by Mr. Jeremiah Lord—and one where Dea. Reuben Hyde now lives, occupied by Mr. Thaddeus Bowman. In 1825, there were 10 dwelling houses in the place.

There are now (1848) within the limits of the village, 640 inhabitants, 92 dwelling houses, 3 meeting houses, 1 Academy, 1 school house, 1 large hotel, 9 stores, 1 woolen factory,¹ 1 iron foundry, 1 machine shop, 1 grist mill, 2 saw mills, 1 large bobbin manufactory, 1 tannery, 1 tub manufactory, 1 pail manufactory, 2 livery stables, with from 15 to 20 horses each, 4 blacksmiths' shops, and various other shops for manufacturing and mechanical purposes, occupied by carpenters, coopers, wheelwrights, turners, shoemakers, harness-makers, tailors, and other mechanics—and many other buildings.

Spring Village,

Was so called from its location around the mineral springs, which, together with the land in the vicinity, were, about the year 1800, owned and occupied by Mr. Jacob Whitney. By him the two first buildings, which were very small ones, were erected in the place. This Village is about 2 miles easterly from the North ¹ Owned by the Winchendon Manufacturing Corporation, in which are three sets of Machinery. About 200,000 yards twilled flannels per year are manufactured, employing 15 male, and 13 female hands. Value of goods manufactured, about $50,000 annually.

Village, and about 3 miles northeast from the centre of the town.

The north, or Monomenoc branch of Miller's river, runs through this village, on which river has been erected a cotton factory. The Spring Manufacturing Company has been incorporated, and owns the establishment. The factory, now owned by a corporation, known as the 'Nelson Mills Manufacturing Company,' contains about 6000 spindles, and gives employment to 175 individuals. The present number of inhabitants in the village is nearly 400. There is one school-house in the village. Two trading companies are doing business in the place. The water power 1-4 of a mile below the Nelson Mills, is improved with lumber apparatus to some extent, though not to its full capacity. Should the water power within the village be occupied to its full extent, it probably would support a population to the number of 1000; as it is, the number of inhabitants and dwelling houses are on the increase.

Waterville

Lies on both sides of Miller's river, about a mile westerly from the North Village. In 1810, there was no building in the place. 1817, there were only one dwelling house and one saw mill.

Waterville contains now (1848) 34 dwelling houses, 46 families and 225 inhabitants. It has 2 stores, 1 saw and stave mill, in which a large amount of work is done, 3 pail shops, in which about 300,000 pails, tubs, churns, &c. are manufactured yearly, employing from 40 to 50 hands. It also contains a box and bobbin factory, in which are made annually 400,000 bobbins and 10,000 nests of boxes, and in which are employed 11 hands. It has also a machine shop and a shoe shop.

There is not a single mean or worthless dwelling house in either of the three above-named villages.

REMARKABLE EVENTS.

Memorable Winds.

There was a hurricane at Winchendon, Oct. 15, 1795, about 5 o'clock, P. M. Several houses and barns were partly unroofed or otherwise injured. One house (Mr. Thornton Barret's) was nearly ruined. Wool, blown from one chamber, was found adhering to apple trees, three or four miles distant.

A high wind, Sept. 1816, blew down many acres of wood and timber in the westerly part of the town.

The Hard Winter.

The winter of 1779-80, is memorable as the Hard Winter. An immense body of snow covered the ground; and so intense was the cold that for six weeks water did not drop from the eaves.

The Dark Day.

May 19, 1780, was remarkable throughout New England for its unusual darkness. It began about 10 o'clock, A. M.; at 11, the darkness was so great that the fowls retired to their roosts, and the cattle came to the barns as at night. Before 12 candles became necessary. The darkness increased through the evening.

Total Eclipse of the Sun, June, 1806.

In this vicinity, and probably throughout New England, this interesting phenomenon was observed under very favorable circumstances. The day was remarkably fine. Not a cloud obscured any part of the hemisphere. The air was dry and clear, and the heavens, before the obscuration, were in a robe of the brightest azure.

The wind was northwest in the morning, but shifted to the northeast after the eclipse commenced, and continued easterly until its completion. No dew fell. There was a sensible chillness, however, in the air. The duration of total darkness was upwards of four minutes.

The departing light of the sun was supportable to the naked eye. It was otherwise with the first return of light, which was extremely vivid and inexpressibly rapid in its access. The portion of the sun which first reappeared, was to the naked eye of a globular form and seemed like a ball of fire.

The exhibition was wonderfully magnificent, and inspired one universal sentiment of admiration and awe.

The breadth of the shadow was found to be about 120 miles, and enveloped the entire territory of Massachusetts, except Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket.

The above cited extract, together with the following note adduced from Mr. Torrey's valuable History of the Town of Fitchburg, will show the value of labor and services about one century ago. The currency and common mode of reckoning then was old tenor.

'Old Tenor' and 'Lawful Money' explained.

"As many of my readers, at the present day, would probably find it difficult to determine the difference between 'Old Tenor' and 'Lawful Money,' I will here add that in the year 1702 recourse was had in the New England provinces to a paper currency to support the expenses of the government, and furnish a substitute for a circulating medium. The bills purported that they would be redeemed at a certain time, which was done at first, but it soon became customary to redeem them by new emissions. This being done pretty liberally, they began to depreciate in value. In Massachusetts, where their value was kept up better than in the other provinces, the depreciation was at the rate of seven and a half for one in specie. This currency acquired the name of Old Tenor—seven shillings and six pence being equal to only one shilling in silver, which was called 'Lawful money,' or ninepence sterling of Great Britain.

In the year 1750, the government of Great Britain made a grant of a sum of money to Massachusetts to remunerate the province for its exertions in the late war with France. Governor Hutchinson proposed that this sum, which was sent over in dollars and parts of dollars, should be appropriated to redeem the whole of the bills of credit of the province. This proposition, after much opposition, was carried into effect; and eventually it was productive of much good. Accordingly the circulation of Old Tenor bills was finally stopped on the 31st of March, 1750. The last emission of the Old Tenor bills was made by Gov. Shirley in order to defray the expenses of the expedition against Cape Breton in 1745. This he did contrary to the express orders of the king to put a stop to them; but as the plan was successful, no notice was taken of this breach of orders."

'Old Style' and 'New Style' Explained.

The young reader may naturally inquire the reason of this month February being in the same year with the previous October. For information this note is inserted. The Old Style was in use and the year began on the 25th of March, until 1752; after which the year began on the 1st of January.

Extract from the Act of Parliament regulating the commencement of the year, and for correcting the calendar now in use.

Whereas the legal supputation of the year of our Lord in England according to which the year beginneth on the 25th day of March, hath been found by experience to be attended with divers inconveniences—therefore—Be it enacted, That the said supputation, according to which the year of our Lord beginneth on the 25th day of March, shall not be made use of from and after the last day of December, 1751; and that the first day of January next following the said last day of December, shall be reckoned, taken, deemed and accounted to be the first day of the year of our Lord 1752. And that from and after the first day of January 1752, the several days of each month shall go on and be reckoned and numbered in the same order as they now are until the second day of September in the said year 1752 inclusive; and that the natural day next immediately following the said second day of September shall be called, reckoned and accounted to be the fourteenth day of September, omitting for that time only the eleven intermediate days of the common calendar. — *Vide Acts and Laws of Massachusetts Bay, fol. An Act for erecting the Plantation called Ipswich Canada into a Town by the name of Winchendon.

Whereas the inhabitants of the Plantation called Ipswich Canada in the County of Worcester, labor under many difficulties and inconveniences by means of their not being a Town: Therefore,

Be it enacted by the Governor, Council and House of Representatives, That the Plantation commonly called and known by the name of Ipswich Canada, in the County of Worcester, bounded as follows, viz: South twelve degrees west, seven miles and two hundred rods on Dorchester Canada; west eighteen degrees south, two hundred and seventy rods on Westminster; north thirty-six degrees west, four miles and two hundred and twenty rods on Templeton line; north seventy-eight degrees west, six hundred rods on Templeton line; north twelve degrees east, four miles and two hundred and sixty rods on Royalshire; south seventy-eight degrees west,* six miles on Royalshire line; be and hereby is erected into a Town, by the name of Winchendon: and that the inhabitants thereof be, and hereby are invested with all the powers, privileges and immunities, which the inhabitants of the towns within the province do or may enjoy.

And be it further enacted, That there be laid on the lands already laid out in the said Town of Winchendon, a tax of one penny per acre for the term of three years.

And be it further enacted, That Edward Hartwell, esq. be and hereby is empowered to issue his warrant, directed to some principal inhabitant in said Town, requiring him to warn the inhabitants of the said Town, qualified to vote in Town affairs, to meet at such time and place as shall be therein set forth, to choose all such officers as are or shall be required by law to manage the affairs of the said Town.—Acts and Laws of Massachusetts Bay, fol. Boston Ed. 1759, p. 458.

Origin of the Name.

It seems that Winchendon was so called after the name either of a manor or of a small town in England.

An English historian states that "In the month of December," 1706, "Her Majesty," Queen Anne, "conferred the following honors, viz: Thomas Lord Wharton"

* There is, evidently, a mistake in the statement of the course of this line; it should be east twelve degrees south.

was created “Viscount Winchendon and Earl of Wharton.”—Etchard's History of England, vol. 4, p. 457.

DD

It has been handed down by tradition that sometime before the township was settled, a hunter by the name of Denison got lost in the woods, which was tall and thick in that region. He climbed a tree with a view to look out, and descried the pond, which from this circumstance, was named Denison's pond.

1. Resolved, that having taken into serious consideration the state of the rights of the Colonies, and of the Province in particular, as men, as christians, and as subjects, and a list of infringements and violation of rights, as specified and set forth by the Committee of the town of Boston. We are of opinion that the rights of this Province are well and truly stated in said list, as they are well supported and warranted by the laws of God, of nature, of the realm of Great Britain and the charter of this Province; that a list of infringements and violations of those rights and privileges inherent to the inhabitants of this Province are well stated, vindicated and supported by a great variety of uncontestable facts, whereby it appears to us, by a list of the violations and infractions of our liberties and privileges as British subjects, transmitted to us as aforesaid, that the time is speedily hastening when we shall be reduced to the most abject slavery.

2. Resolved, that having consulted our charter, we find that, by the aforesaid infringements and violations, our rights and liberties, thereby derived, are sapped to the very foundation.

3. Resolved, that it is of the utmost importance [that] the Colonies in general, and the inhabitants of this Province in particular, stand firm as one man to support and maintain all their just rights and privileges.

4. Resolved, that this town will, at all times, heartily join with our brethren of this Province, and with every true friend to liberty in all lawful measures which may be proper, salutary and effectual for the redress of our grievances and the establishment of our charter rights, privileges and liberties.

5. Resolved, that this town choose a Committee to correspond with the Boston Committee and the Committees of other towns, to receive and communicate to the town all salutary measures that shall be proposed or offered by any other towns for removing the common grievances of this Province, and to communicate the sentiments of this town to the correspondent Committee of the other towns of this Province.

6. Resolved, that the united thanks of this town and of every true son of liberty and friend to the constitution of the Province is due to the town of Boston for their early and indefatigable zeal in endeavoring to preserve the constitutional rights and liberties of this Province.

7. Resolved, that the town of Boston be served with an attested copy of our proceedings.

August 25, 1774. Then met according to adjournment.

Voted, That Dea. Moses Hale go to Worcester upon the adjournment of the County Convention.

Voted, and accepted of the following Resolves, namely :

1. Resolved that we acknowledge ourselves true and liege subjects to His Majesty, King George 3d, and that we will, to the utmost of our power, defend his crown and dignity.

2. Resolved, that the charter of this Province is the basis of allegiance to His Majesty, the sacred obligation he is under to protect us his American subjects, and that all Acts of the British Parliament which tend to vacate our charter without our consent, have a tendency to destroy our allegiance to the king, and also the obligation he is under to protect us, his most loyal subjects, which, consequently reducè us to a state of nature.

3. Resolved, that those unconstitutional Acts lately passed in the British Parliament, wherein they claim a right to tax the Americans without their consent, and to alter our free Constitutions at their pleasure, has a direct tendency to break off the affections of His Majesty's true and loyal subjects in America, from the king, and therefore most certainly weaken the British nation, and will, if persisted in, unavoidably endanger, if not actually be a means of the destruction of the king, at the whole British realm.

4. Resolved, that we will, to the utmost of our power, oppose all such unconstitutional acts, which in our opinion are directly against the dignity of the king and the constitution of this Province, and are ready to risk our lives and fortunes in defence of our rightful sovereign, and to maintain our free constitution, in order to save ourselves and posterity from ruin and slavery, which seem, like a torrent, rushing in upon us.

5. Resolved, that we will do all that lies in our power to maintain peace and good order amongst us according to the laws of this Province; and that we will break off all dealings, as far as possible, with all officers who hold their commissions under unconstitutional laws.

6. Resolved, that those men who are appointed Counsellors by a mandamus from England, directly contrary to the charter of this Province, and have taken the oaths required to serve in that office, are destitute of any regard for the good of their country, and ought to be treated as open enemies to the once free constitution of this Province.

At a legal meeting of the freeholders and other inhabitants of Winchendon, qualified by law to vote in the choice of a Representative, on the 4th day of July, 1776.

Chose Thos. Sawyer Moderator, for the government of said meeting.

Whereas this town has been called upon by the Honorable House of Representatives of this Colony to signify their minds in regard of American independency; being duly sensible of the cruel and oppressive measures which are pursued by the King and Parliament of Great Britain in order to enslave the Colonies, and consequently the difficulty that will attend our being ever again united with Great Britian, therefore,

Unanimously Resolved, That if the Honorable Contimental Congress should think best for the safety of these Colonies to declare them independent of the Kingdom of Great Britain, that we will with our lives and fortunes support them in the measure.—Town Records, B. 1, p 206.

It was common, in those days, for towns to instruct their representatives at the General Court, upon the subject of grievances under which they were suffering, and which they wished to have redressed. This direct interference of the people with the State legislation, by means of instructions to their representatives, having been long discontinued, a recital of it now is rather a subject of curiosity.

At a meeting for choosing a Representative, May 27, 1777, the town chose a Committee of seven persons to draft instructions for the representative. The Committee were Ebenezer Sherwin, Thornton Barrett, Moses Hale, Daniel Goodridge, Richard Pearson, Abel Wilder, and Benjamin Brown.

The Report of the above Committee being read, voted and accepted of the said report, which is as follows, namely,

To Mr. Robert Bradish,

Sir, You being legally appointed to represent the town of Winchendon in the Great and General Court the ensuing year, the town think proper to give you the following instructions, viz. That you use your influence to the utmost, to obtain a repeal of an Act, passed by the General Court in the close of their session in the year 1776, entitled an Act for a more equal representation. And upon the repeal of said Act, to issue writs for the choice of a new House and then dissolve. And in case the said Act should not be repealed, not to proceed to any business, but return home. Town Records, B. 1, page 249.

Continental Money.

It may be interesting at this time, to give a slight sketch of the rate of the depreciation of the paper Continental currency. The bills began to depreciate in 1777. On the first of January 1777, it was at par. First of Jan. 1778, $1.00 specie was worth $4.50 Continental; first of Jan. 1779, $1.00 specie was worth $8.38 Continental; first of Jan. 1780, $1.00 specie was worth $32.50 Continental. In March, 1780, the town "voted and granted £5209, for repairing roads," and "voted that a man have £9. per day for labor on the roads." In July "£5000 was granted for the purpose of hiring men for the war, and to defray other town charges;" also granted $85 per day for 34 days service of the Delegates at the Convention for forming the State Constitution, making £867." In Nov. following "£13,598" more was "granted to defray town charges." Jan. 1, 1781, the town "voted and granted £10,000 to procure beef that is now called for, and to help procure continental soldiers." March, "voted and granted £8000 for making and mending roads," and voted that a man be allowed £15 per day for work on the roads." April 23, "voted that what money is due" to a certain individual "be paid ninety for one." March 14, 1782, the town voted, "That the Constable and Collectors be directed to receive no more paper money for town rates." Town Records B. 2.

In the warrant for town meeting of 11th Sept. 1815, was an article, To see if the town will make the ground where the body seats are in the meeting house, on any other ground into pews for the purpose of building a tower and cupola, or act on the matter as they think proper.

Accordingly the town assembled and under this article

Voted, That the ground in the meeting house mentioned [in the article] be cut for the purpose mentioned under the same article.

Meeting adjourned to 23d. Then voted, That the tower and cupola or steeple be built on condition it can be done free from any expense to the town, other than the ground for 6 pews on the lower floor and 10 pews in the gallery and the old porch and seats. Town Records, B. 3, pp. 388, 389, 392.

In the mean time there was a subscription by sundry individuals, inhabitants of the town, for a Bell.

The belfry or steeple was completed, and, at a meeting of the inhabitants of the town, Nov. 4, 1816, was accepted.

At the same meeting a Presentment of the Church Bell to the town of Winchendon, (in behalf of the Proprietors,) by a Committee chosen by the subscribers, was made on the following conditions—That the town shall keep it in good and sufficient repair, cause it to be rung and tolled at the customary times, and a suitable and decent manner—and cause, by their vote, this representation of the said subscribers by their Committee, together with the names of the subscribers who have purchased by their liberality the said Church Bell, with the sum that each individual has given therefor, to be entered and enrolled on the records of the town.

Then the town voted, and accepted of the Bell as offered by the Proprietors' Committee.

RR

There were many during Mr. Stimpson's and Mr. Brown's ministry, who joined the church in this way, which was sometimes called the Half way covenant.* The origin of the practice is found at large in Mather's Magnalia, and in Hubbard's General History of New England.

Mr. Hubbard says, The affairs of the church in New England were hitherto ordered according to the platform of discipline set forth in 1648, but in the beginning of this lustre [i. e. the 5 years from 1656 to 1661] some difficulties began to arise about enlarging the subject of baptism, which unto this time had been administered unto those children only, whose immediate parents were admitted into full communion in the churches where they lived. But now the country came to be increased, and sundry families were found that had many children born in them, whose immediate parents had never attempted to join to any of the churches, to which they belonged, and yet were very much dissatisfied that they could not obtain baptism for their children, although themselves made no way to be admitted to the Lord's supper. The case was generally apprehended to be difficultly circumstanced, as things had hitherto been carried on amongst those churches, and did occasion many debates between the ministers of the country, many of which were willing to have baptism enlarged to those in that capacity, but knew not well how to bring the matter about, with the peace of their churches, where many of their people were very scrupulous about any innovation.

Questions of this nature were first started in the colony of Connecticut; the magistrates of which did, about 1656,

* This way or practice was discontinued and done away in this church in 1801—about the time Mr. Pilsbury was settled.

send down several of them about this subject to the magistrates of the Massachusetts, and they mutually called together sundry of the ablest ministers of each colony—and they met and held their disputation at Boston in New England, June 4, 1757. One question debated was this, Whether the child, admitted by his father's covenant, be also a deputy for his seed, without or before personal covenanting; or without or before like personal qualifications in kind, as his father was to enjoy when he became a deputy? Reply. It is the duty of infants who confederate in their parents, when grown up to years of discretion, though not yet fit for the Lord's supper, to own the covenant they made with their parents, by entering thereinto in their own persons: and it is the duty of the church to call upon them for the performance thereof; and if being called upon they shall refuse the performance of this great duty, or otherwise continue scandalous, they are liable to be censured for the same by the church. And in case they understand the grounds of religion, are not scandalous, and solemnly own the covenant in their own persons, wherein they give up themselves and their children unto the Lord, and desire baptism for them, we (with due reverence to any godly, learned, that may dissent,) see not sufficient cause to deny baptism unto their children. This proposition was consented unto by a synod, called to meet at Boston, not long after, viz. 1662.—See Hubbard's General Hist. of N. E. Chap. 64. See also Mather's Magnalia.

Mr. Hubbard further says, In the beginning of this lustre [i. e. from 1661 to 1666] some questions were raised amongst the churches and people of the Massachusetts; one was about the extent of baptism, viz. Whether the children of some parents might not be admitted to baptism, though they themselves were never admitted to full communion with the church, at the Lord's table; about which case, the country was strangely divided.

An answer of the ministers and other messengers of the churches assembled in Synod at Boston in the year 1662.

From their answer to the 1st question propounded to them by order of the general court, which question is, Who are the subjects of baptism? several propositions are here quoted, viz. Answer. The answer may be given in the following propositions. 1. They that, according to scripture, are members of the visible church, are the subjects of baptism. 2. The members of the visible church, according to scripture, are confederate visible believers in particular churches, and their infant seed, i. e. children in minority, whose next parents are one or both in covenant. 3. The infant seed of confederate visible believers are members of the same church with their parents; and, when grown up, are personally under the watch, discipline and government of the church. 4. Those adult persons are not therefore to be admitted to full communion, merely because they are and continue members, without such further qualifications as the word of God requireth thereunto. 5. Such church members, who are admitted in minority, understanding the doctrine of faith, and publicly professing their assent thereunto, not scandalous in life, and solemnly owning the covenant before the church, wherein they give up themselves and their children to the Lord, and subject themselves to the government of Christ in the church, their children are to be baptized.—Hubbard's General Hist. of N. E. Ch. 67. Mather's Magnalia.

SS

Mr. Brown afterward supplied the pulpit at Springfield, Vermont.

TT

Mr. Brown never delivered up the church records to his successor, nor to the church, owing to which circumstance, there is a great chasm in the ecclesiastical history of this town.

UU

Mr. Elam Clark preached here as a candidate under peculiar circumstances.

In the latter part of the year 1819, the church and town being completely united in him, unanimously gave him a call, with an offer of $650 annual salary, and $200 settlement. Jan. 20, 1820, he gave an answer in the negative. Mar. 6, 1820, the church and town renewed their call with the same offer in all respects as before. March 13, 1820, Mr. Clark gave his answer to the second call in the negative.

After Mr. Elam Clark left Winchenden, it was said he preached in several places. In Tiverton, R. I. he preached as a candidate, with nearly the same remarkable circumstances, of two calls and refusals, as at Winchendon. He was afterwards settled as pastor of a congregational church in Providence, R. I.—continued there about one year, and was dismissed at his own request. He previously married the daughter of a wealthy farmer from Suffield, Ct. and retired to that place for a time after leaving Providence. He afterward kept school, and finally died of a cancer about the year 1834.

VV

Mr. E. L. Clark was afterwards settled at Berlin, and again, more recently, at Richmond, Mass.

WW

Mr. Morton was afterward settled in Bristol, N. H.

The following notice was published in the Boston Recorder of Jan. 25, 1844.

Dedication. The new meeting house recently erected by the North Winchendon Congregational Society, was solemnly dedicated to the worship of God, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, on Wednesday, Jan. 10. Introductory prayer and reading of the scriptures by Rev. Mr. Chipman of Athol; sermon by Rev. Mr. Marvin of North Winchendon; dedicatory prayer by Rev. Mr. Peckham of South Royalston.

Ordination. On the same day, Mr. Abijah P. Marvin was ordained Pastor of the North Winchendon Congregational Church and Society. Mr. Jennison of Ashburnham; charge to the pastor by Rev. Mr. Burnham of Rindge, N. H.; right hand of fellowship by Rev. Mr. Sabin of Templeton; address to the church and people by Rev. Mr. Chipman of Athol; concluding prayer by Rev. Mr. Stone of Gardner ; benediction by the Pastor.

The day was beautiful for a wintry day—the house crowded to overflowing, the services solemn and appropriate, the music excellent, and the appearance of the audience furnished ample evidence that a good impression was produced. This new church, having but just been organized, with their new meeting house located in a flourishing village, and their young pastor in the freshness of ministerial life, commences its career by the brightest prospects of usefulness and success.
